

Classroom Rules-Mr. Brickner's Classes

- 1.) DON'T WRITE ON THE DESKS...(especially BO OUTLAW)
- 2.) When I am standing in front of the class or sitting on my barstool up front, that is a cue to you that I am ready to speak. When I am ready to go, you should be silent.
- 3.) If there are 2 things that really bother me, it is 1.) Cheating and 2.) Lying. I have no interest, and will be brutal to people of low moral character. You are here at Calvert to become a better person, not a typical lowlife. You might as well tell me the truth, because if you don't, I will have a hard time ever trusting you or respecting you.
- 4.) No one is talk during a test for any reason. Period.
- 5.) You may choose your seats at the beginning of the semester, but if you become a distraction, I will reassign all seats my way.
- 6.) My classes are designed so that you will contribute to the discussions. If you sit there like a log, you will miss out on the participation points that I will add at the end of the semester.
- 7.) Please do not bend the chairs back...if you want a couch..
GO HOME!!
- 8.) Have fun!! School doesn't have to be boring!! Get involved, and the classes will be much more interesting.
- 9.) Only one person is allowed to be out of the class at a time.
- 10.) CD players, computer games and decks of cards should be left at home. I do not want to see them in my classroom. If your cellphone rings during the class period-automatic detention.
